Cape Sand and Recycling to host Installer Education Programs for contractors

BREWSTER— Cape Sand and Recycling is hosting two Installer Education Programs for Cape Cod contractors. The professional development classes include a full-day National Concrete Masonry Association (NCMA) certification and a two-day Interlocking Concrete Pavement Institute (ICPI) certification. Co-sponsored by Cape Sand and Recycling and Techo-Bloc, both classes will be held on-site at the Cape Sand and Recycling stone yard at 1515 Freeman's Way in Brewster.

The full day NCMA "SRW Installer Course" is scheduled for January 27th from 7:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The "Concrete Products University" certification program presents best practices relevant to the concrete masonry and hardscape industry. The cost is $195 per person. The two-day ICPI "Level I Concrete Paver Installer Certification Program" will be on January 28th and 29th from 7:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The ICPI class presents industry guidelines to paver installers on estimating, planning and executing residential and commercial projects. The cost is $250 per person ($195 for ICPI members) and includes all class materials, continental breakfast and lunch both days. For more information or to register, please call Cape Sand and Recycling at (508) 255-1550, or email info@CapeSandandRecycling.com.
